

Alex: Ok, we are recording, so I shall do the shutting about OK.

Tabs: Alright, we're gonna start this lovely meeting at 3:06 PM on this March 12, 2021. Hello everyone, I hope you're all doing well. I know midterms have started and have been going on, and I hope you're all getting through it. Nothing much to add club-wise, presidency-wise anyway, but, you know, again, I'm graduating this semester and if anyone's interested in the presidency position, feel free to hit me up and I'll try to, like, walk you through what I do pretty much. And hopefully next semester or the semester after that, you guys can all finally be in the actual room and not in all of our own rooms in a Google meetings. All right, that's it for the President, Vice President's up.

Ken: Hey, what's up? It's Ken here, I'm Vice President. I don't really have much to say other than what the President just said, except for maybe schedule your Covid vaccines, that's starting to happen, so check out if you can get it. Apparently they might be giving them out near Stony Brook campus, but do that, we don't want anyone with Covid in the club. We will ban you, temporarily while you have Covid if you're in the club next semester, I imagine. We have a complaint form, if anyone in the club is feeling uncomfortable, feel free to message me on Discord or use the complaint form on our website that Jolee just posted in chat. Anyway, that's kind of it for me. Thank you.

Jolee: Hello. We only have two requests so far for allocations and we can't really make any this semester, but I still encourage you to follow the link that I put in chat to go make requests so next year, when we have budget hopefully, we can start allocating for things you want.

Alex: I believe that makes it my turn. Hello, I can talk now because my screen recorder actually got an update it seems and it records audio now so I can speak. Other than that, not much to say. Sorry that transcripts have been kind of slow this semester, been a rough semester with four STEM classes, but that's enough about me. Just wanted to thank everyone for generally muting and stuff, like, when other people are talking so it's easier to make these. That's all, thank you.

Tabs: After secretary, we do have Head Librarian.

Shane: Hello. I don't really have anything to say, sadly not on campus, so I'm looking forward to seeing everyone on campus again next semester, but I hope this semester's going well for everyone.

Tabs: All right, after Head Librarian's Head Activities Coordinator.

William: Hello everybody. Not very much to say as Head Activities Coordinator, I haven't done any events yet, I realize that. I've been trying to do a Minecraft event, but I'm having some trouble with it. Everybody wants you to pay a little bit of something, but almost nothing. Anyway, hopefully I'll figure it out so get hyped. And in the meantime, I'll run some movie night events, fill out the form in the Events Discord for what events you'd like if you haven't already. And I don't think there's anybody new here, but yeah, if you want to be a sub AC, just make that known and it'll probably happen.

Tabs: Alright, awesome, looking forward to those events. After Head AC- Oh, is that the form for the event suggestion thing? Yeah, okay, yeah, that's the form for the event types. After Head AC, we have Historian I believe.

Tom: Hey guys, it's Historian Tom again. I have a story for you which requires- which we have recorded in our beautiful logbook, which hopefully you'll be able to see next time we meet up. This will require a little bit of subtext for those who are still new. So every year, the Stony Brook University holds an event called Roth Regatta, where we have cardboard boats, we put duct tape on them, and we try to send it into the river. I know my freshman year, we actually made it to, like, the third or semifinals. So we actually usually do pretty good and they always have come with a theme. So like, for instance, the first year that I was here was Dr. Seuss, et cetera, et cetera. So last year, the 2020 Roth Regatta, which was online due to the virus TM, it was an online popularity contest funnily enough. I bring this up because it's gonna come up in about a month and they might do this again, so be ready, folks. So it's just an online personality test where you upload a picture of your duct taped boat instead of actually, you know, trying to race with a duct tape boat. So, the idea is we'll try to get as much support and vote up our boat, of course. Now, somebody didn't realize, whoever created the voting system, that basically you can vote as many times as you like. So after a certain other club, PUSO, had 90 percent of all the votes versus the Nature Watchers and the Forum it was decided that we would completely overmatch PUSO and spam votes. So what then ensued is a bunch of macros, auto-clickers, and many people wasting a couple hours of their life to ensure the Forum's victory over PUSO, where I think we ended up with something like 50 percent Forum. There was 30 percent to the Nature Watchers and then, like, the other 20 was to PUSO, so that was pretty good. In fact, they figured it out because of what happened and in the next round, one of the other forumites we had couldn't progress because we couldn't spam votes. Luckily, though, we made it to finals because of all their vote spamming and we placed second overall, unfortunately not first, but I mean, we'll take it. So, I'm just saying, there's a lot of opportunity this year. Maybe we'll have to be reimplementing the spam strategy, otherwise just tell everybody you know to vote because it's one per account otherwise. So either way, we are hoping for your support.

Tabs: Yeah, that was a fun time. I think that was- How many forumites made boats in the end. Two?

Tom: Three. It was you, I, and Angela.

Tabs: Yeah.

Tom: So we were a third of all-

Tabs: I thought technically, your boat was the goose boat, though, for like-

Tom: It was like- Hey-

Jolee: I have a picture of it if anyone wants to see it.

Tom: It was a forumite boat, I think that's what we ruled. Like, three of them were made by forumites. So it's still like a third forumite.

Tabs: It was a good time. All right, after Historian, we got Head PR.

Brenda: Hello. Not much to say. Stay safe, enjoy the nice weather, and good luck on your midterms. Yeah.

Tabs: Alright, I'm gonna open it up to open forum then. I believe it's time. Oh, if anyone's got anything to announce, I kind of have something I want to announce, two things. First off, season four of Infinity Train's coming soon, they just dropped that sick trailer. It's called Duet, it's gonna to be the last one too, but hey, looks cool. [REDACTED] Anyone else who has anything to announce, go for it.

William: I'd just like to say go outside, it's really nice.

Tom: I hear they lifted travel restrictions, so if you wanna travel places, be safe, but I think you can, so that's pretty cool.

Tabs: I forgot I have another another announcement series finale of Ducktales on Monday, going to be on Disney 24 hours, I'm pretty sure is what they've said. They're just gonna replay it over and over again. But yeah, series finale of Ducktales 2017, Monday.

Alex: Not sure if I can say this as it's technically not our domain, but speaking of ending of series, I am and I know another guy is hyped for this in the chat Attack on Titan Final Season, which totally, totally isn't having a part 2. What's that?

Ken: They're definitely having a part 2.

Alex: Yeah. Even though they haven't announced it yet.

Ken: The manga's not done yet.

Alex: Yeah, the next- the final chapter is next month, right?

Ken: Yes.

Tabs: Anything else? Shows, games, class well wishes? Goin' once... Goin' twice... Open forum is closed. Good job, everyone. We made it to the end of the meeting. This time I'm gonna remember to ask. Motion to end meeting.

Alex: Seconded,

Tom: Acclimated.

Alex: Acclimated.

Tabs: We did it. We've ended the meeting. Alright, meeting ends at 3:18 PM. Old business: stay clean, don't get sick, treat the Discord like a child you don't abuse. New business: stay clean, don't get sick, and treat the Discord like a child you don't abuse.

TL;DR/Important Notes
