Historian Story:

The Rock

Some call it Ralph's Rock, some call it the GPA Rock, one thing's for certain though, that thing... is a rock. Legend has it that there was a Forumite called Ralph back in the day, he was big and strong, and brought a boulder into the Forum. No one else could lift the rock, and remove it from the forum, at least none who cared to.

Over the years Ralph became a figure of legend and lost to time, so the modern Forumite knows the boulder to be the GPA Rock. A cursed entity that saps your GPA the longer you are in its proximity, the only thing shielding you from its rays being the Battle Star Galactica chainmail armor that covers it. The few who have made direct contact with the Rock have surely faced struggle in their academic standing, some Forumites have been known to drop out of school entirely after touching it.

This Rock has followed us through every move we make, never failing to make it to our new room. Even during our move over the COVID-19 pandemic, where we were unable to transport the rock in the time allotted for us, the rock just showed up in the room.
