Historian Story:

Hear ye! Hear ye! Science Fiction Forum begins new Logbook 90! Let's recap Log 89 as we say goodbye to it.

Log 89 (89.5) began on the first of November 2021, during Shrek Week, after our historian Thomas lost the original book before anything could be written in it. Thomas claims that he took the book back intending to bring back a nicer book. However, the Forum was without Log for too long, so Sammy (a regular Forumite at the time, now President) brought in his own composition notebook. The first story in Log 89 (excluding the debate of Log legitimacy) was a Squid Game story. Kendall (me), Dino, and Thomas went to a Squid Game event run by the Center for Civic Justice. The games were very boring, including one that was just filling out a voter registration form. Log 88 was finished with a very long exaggerated Squid Game story, so you can see what the Forum hive mind was obsessed with at the time.

Log 89 was finished on the sixteenth of March 2024 with the 55th (55.5th) Anniversary event. Ending with a bang of alumni messages and photos from the event. At some point Forumites Angela and Jolee decided to paint the Logbook with a Red Dragon Inn cover (a popular board game in the Forum). They never got around to actually painting it, leaving it as a blank white book until Rachel took up the job and started working on it. They got bored halfway through, and now the cover is left unfinished.
